Dr. Rebecca Cox completed her PhD in clinical psychology at Vanderbilt University, where she studied sleep disturbance in anxiety-related disorders, with an emphasis on obsessive-compulsive disorder (OCD), under the mentorship of Dr. Bunmi Olatunji. She is currently completing a postdoctoral fellowship in sleep and circadian science at the University of Colorado Boulder under the mentorship of Dr. Kenneth Wright, where she is studying delayed circadian rhythms in OCD. Dr. Cox's career goal is to be the principal investigator of a lab studying sleep and circadian rhythms in psychopathology.
